History

The DEMOSTHENES was built by Harland & Wolfe in Belfast in 1911 for the White Star Line. She operated on the Australia run continually and, during WWI was pressed into war service as a Troop Ship, 164 HMAT DEMOSTHENES, before returning to the Australian passenger service in 1920. In 1928 she came under the management of The Oceanic, but remained on the same route, which now included Brisbane. In 1931 the ship was broken up at Jarrow.
